

American Academy of Pediatrics

DEDICATED TO THE HEALTH OF ALL CHILDREN™

From June P. Brady MD, MPH FAAP:

After spending 24 years in Neonatal Research and Newborn Intensive care in San Francisco my husband (a pediatric surgeon) and I went to Africa to teach. We spent 2½ yrs at the University of Nairobi and 9 years at the University of Zimbabwe and made a number of brief visits to other African countries. Initially we were paid by the local medical schools but for the last 5 years our Social Security checks exceeded our professors' salaries and we volunteered under the auspices of Health Volunteers Overseas! This was indeed a wonderful way to enjoy "retirement".
